Gwinnett's transit system has been rebranded

Formerly known as Gwinnett County Transit, Gwinnett's public transit system is now called Ride Gwinnett.

The original brand has remained unchanged since the launch of service in 2001. The County has adopted a new brand, and a new brand for transit will ensure the Gwinnett Standard is reflected throughout all County services. We are rebranding all assets which include, but are not limited to, our transit website, buses, bus stop shelters, and bus stop signs.

The rebranding process will continue through the rest of 2023. We will work in multiple phases so that our operations are not impacted.

If you have any questions about the rebranding, you can call Ride Gwinnett Customer Service at 770.822.5010.

Public meetings for new transit service this month

More transit options are coming to Gwinnett! From February 1 to March 7, attend an in-person or virtual meeting to learn about Ride Gwinnett's new services and share your feedback.

As part of the approved 2023 budget, Ride Gwinnett plans to add service to new areas of Gwinnett County. Transit will expand in Snellville, Stone Mountain, Buford, and Suwanee with extended service in Lawrenceville, Lilburn, and Duluth.

Stuff-A-Bus donation drive is back

Help Ride Gwinnett provide necessities to Gwinnett communities in need during this year's Stuff-A-Bus donation drive. We are aiming to fill an entire bus with canned foods and toiletries. Donations received will be delivered to local cooperative ministries.

From February 20 through 24, you can place your donations in collection boxes located on all buses, or you can bring your donations to the Ride Gwinnett Customer Service Office at 3525 Mall Boulevard, Suite 5C in Duluth.
